

THE BUILDER.

ROWBOTHAM'S WATER-COLOUR DRAWING-BOOK.

By T. H. ROWBOTHAM, JUN.

Member of the New Society of Painters in Water-Colour; Author of "Landscape Painting in Water-Colour," &c. &c.

FOUR PARTS, price 14s. complete; or, Three Shillings and Sixpence each.

The object of this work is to supply what has been long felt to be wanting—a DRAWING-BOOK, containing COLOURED EXAMPLES, for the amateur and young artist, studying WATER-COLOUR PAINTING, in that miniature drawing, at the price of ordinary lithographs. Each plate is drawn on stone, by the Artist, and printed by a new process in lithography, to resemble original drawing, and afterwards coloured under the personal superintendence of Mr. Rowbotham.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"The bold and effective woodcuts which have now appeared for some years past in the weekly sheets of our excellent contemporary The Builder, must be familiar to all who are the least interested in architecture. It is only from the show they make among their fellow-citizens of the 'Illustrated Press' in the windows of the news-vendors. It will, we are sure, be very acceptable to such as set a higher value upon these prints than the ephemeral pleasure they give on their first appearance, to have smooth and well-printed impressions at a very moderate price. In the revolution now before us, with the advantage of glossy ink and tinted paper, they assume a beauty which some persons will be scarcely prepared to expect, who are not fully aware of the great importance of good printing to wood engravings."—Standard.

"This elegant and handsome volume of the principal cuts which have appeared from time to time in The Builder is an extraordinary useful addition to illustrated literature. We know that work is read and purchased by many who have no connection with 'building'; there are, however, a class who are not aware of the value or curiosity of the many engravings, and such persons will, we doubt, avail themselves of this handsome volume of them, printed on fine paper, and with greater care, and accompanied with a proper amount of descriptive letter-press."—Art Journal.

"A publication of much merit and interest. The articles are able and sensible, the observations are clear."—The Literary Digest.

"The idea of republishing in a separate and handsome form some of the best architectural subjects that have been given in The Builder was a good one. Besides being thus brought together within a comparatively small and convenient compass, separated from miscellaneous matter of only technical or temporary interest, the woodcuts are so greatly improved in appearance that they scarcely seem to be from the same blocks as before. The text illustrations, of the same number of them, could not have been brought out at the same price and not the blocks had already been used, and had they not served their purpose in a periodical having an unimpaired sale."—The Athenaeum.

"Unparalleled in the artistic world for cheapness as well as for utility and beauty of effect." It is among the cheapest and the best works of the kind ever published."—The Observer.

"This is a happy and most skillfully carried out. Fine printing, and a deep yellow paper, give a most charming effect to these rigorous and faithful illustrations of the edifices of the nineteenth century, and of some of the Middle Ages; and the whole will thus worthily fill a gap in pictorial literature, for we have no popular book of consequence on modern architecture. Medieval structures, moreover, have rarely been more effectively and completely illustrated."—The Standard.

THE INTERIOR OF THE EXHIBITION BUILDING.

As for framing, price only 3d.

No. 1, York Street, Covent Garden. May be obtained through any Bookseller.

Just published, with Twelve Engravings and Seven Woodcuts, royal 8vo., 10s., cloth.

THE SEVEN PERIODS OF ENGLISH ARCHITECTURE defined and illustrated. An elementary work, affording at a single glance a comprehensive view of the history of English Architecture from the Saxon to the Reformation.

By EDMUND SHARPE, M.A., Architect.

"The author of one of the ablest works of modern times, Mr. Sharpe's Paradise is worthy of the best days of art and shows care and knowledge of its own kind. All his later works have been marked in the same way by the same careful and honest spirit. His attempt to determine our architecture into periods, and assign to it a new nomenclature is therefore entitled to considerable respect."—Standard.

GEORGE BELL, 186, Fleet Street.

GOTHIC ORNAMENTS.

By J. K. COLLING, Architect.

In 3 vols. royal 8vo., price 71s. in appropriate cloth binding, containing 60 plates, nearly 50 of which illustrate the existing Gothic architecture of the Middle Ages. The work may be also had in numbers, price 2s. 6d. in parts, leather or separate.

"The completion of this elaborate work affords us an opportunity of doing justice to its great merits. It was planned by the appreciation of the characteristics and the beauties of Gothic architecture, that some more extensive series of illustrations should be given to the world. Until the appearance of this work, that of Payne was the only one of any importance and accuracy."—Architectural Quarterly Review.

THE OMBROLOGICAL ALMANAC.

1852, in its Twelfth Year.

By PETER LEIGH, Esq., A.M., F.R.S., &c.

Member of the British Meteorological Society, Hon. Fellow of the Institute of British Architects.

The interest expressed as to the weather calculations of the almanac, owing to its popularity to all classes, having last year 74,000 copies of it, with only the ten originally known planets, which it may be known to some that several of the lunar conjunctions of the eleven recently discovered planets have been traced by the Astronomer General, remains as lunar periods, which have proved them, leaving probably more than the rest of the 11th of April in this year, and corresponding days in other months, likely for lunar conjunctions of planets still unknown, makes it necessary to say, the unavoidable constant delay of astronomers in publishing ephemerides of these planets alone prevent greater advances in this important science, and the publication of an additional analytical summary beyond the condensed observations actually accompanying the Almanac on this interesting subject, though when this barrier is removed, the Author hopes every educated person will be as anxious to keep himself abreast with himself that these investigations commenced when the brilliant and unexpected discovery of the century came so opportunely in.

Calculations, whose labour in setting is provided for, and the almanac owes to this almanac school, for courtesy, should apply for the number of copies they want nearly three months before the time of publication, which, to prevent pressure and the embarrassment of delay, is not injurious to science, is not till December 1st, each year. Of course, from the mass of material, fees, &c., can only be inserted in a condensed form, so that every respectable almanac editor is interested in setting this with care, to distinct in the press. Price 1s. 6d. per copy.
